Strategies Reported in the Literature to Migrate to Microservices Based Architecture

Source: H. C. D. Silva Filho and G. D. Figueiredo Carneiro "Strategies Reported in the Literature to Migrate to Microservices Based Architecture," Proceedings of the 16th International Conference on Information Technology-New Generations (ITNG 2019), 2019. [Online]. Available: http://link.springer.com/10.1007/978-3-030-14070-0_81

Paper Information: Systematic Literature Review (SLR)

Rating: ⭐ ⭐

Own Keywords: Background, Migration, Challenges

Reading Progress: Was only mentioned by others

Introduction (What is the Paper about?)

- Systematic Literature Review (SLR)* as overview of lessons learned, difficulties and challenges of the migration process
  - focus on papers discussing migration difficulties

Methods

- Systematic Literature Review (SLR)
  - five papers selected and seven further added based on authors suggestion

Scientific Benefit

Challenges / Future Work

Limitations

- only 5 papers found through SLR
- 7 papers included based on authors selection

Paper Outline and Read Progress

Own Comments

- (-) Potential subjective as more than the half of the investigated papers are suggested by the authors itself
- (-) does not cover aspects of migration processes such as: data collection, analysis, decomposition and evaluation (abgaz2023Decomposition)